

Plastic Kills! Environment in danger

Plastic Kills! Environment in danger

On Saturday 29 of August Little Stars School was out in the streets of Varanasi. Together with the Bal Ashram and inspired by their and our Guru Baba Hari ji we protested against the carelessness of the importance of a clean environment. Unfortunately trees are often cut for the need of firewood, which will pollute our Holy city. It must not go on like it is now. It is a big shame for our beloved Varanasi. It was a very hot day, and it took more than three hours, but everyone was happy to have been in that rally.

Anita, our Head teacher

Anita is Asha's sister in law and mother of two bright children. She organized, for instance, our rally for the environment, her re-checks copies, she checks children attendance and problems and she is in charge of our sponsored students. Anita is very dedicated and we are lucky to have her here.

Assaf, Volunteer

I'm from Israel, 36 years old. I work in the Israeli high tech industry, currently spending several months in India on vacation. I work in school full time, six days a week. Mainly teaching English, but also working with the nursery children, and helping with computer related issues. I find the staff professional and helpful and the atmosphere warm and familiar. Most importantly, the kids are wonderful: lively, cheerful, very smart and eager to learn.

www.littlestarsschool.org

Construction Update

While your reporter was on holiday in Holland, labor finished the demolition of the old building in our new plot. Now the paper is still doing the work: we need to get an official permission to build. In India too, governmental work goes very, very slow.

In the meantime we prepare the top roof for being more student-friendly when it rains: glass and rain pipes.

Your support is our energy!

Teachers' Day: Niti 2009

At the 5th of September India celebrated teachers' day. Our students, gathered on the rooftop, honored the teachers by singing and dancing. The Lions club pleased all teachers with a nice gift and a flower garland. Nitti Singh (23), class teacher of class 1 had been chosen by her colleagues as the best teacher of the year at LSS.

